BEES IN RELATION TO FRUIT GROWING

By C. B. GOODERHAM, Dominion Apiarist.

The primary object of keeping bees is to secure from them a crop of honey, but this is not all that may be gained through them. Bees secure their living and a surplus crop of honey for their owner almost entirely from flowers, and because of this fact, they are of equal economic importance to the producers of seed and fruit, as they are to the beekeeper himself. A crop of fruit cannot be obtained unless the blossoms first become fertilized, and this is accomplished by transferring pollen from one blossom to another. It has been proved that most of the fruit bearing trees or bushes are either self sterile or incompatible to their own pollen and that all of them will yield better crops when crossed with pollen from some other variety. It has also been proved that wind plays little or no part in the distribution of fruit pollen, but that insects are the most effective agents for this purpose. Some experimental work done with plums at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, showed that when insects were excluded from the trees during the blossoming period, no fruit was obtained, but where honey bees had access to the flowers, a good crop was secured. Wild bees are also effective pollinating agents, but their numbers cannot be controlled, a severe winter may reduce their numbers considerably, but honey bees being wintered over in colonies and capable of being moved from place to place may be distributed through the orchards as desired. It is a common practice in some countries for fruit growers, who are not beekeepers themselves, to hire colonies from some beekeeper during the blossoming period, knowing that the presence of bees in their orchards increases the possibilities for a better crop of fruit.

PRETTY SCENE IN NO. VANCOUVER

Beneath an arch hung with roses and pink and white cosmos, from which was suspended a white wedding bell, the marriage took place of Helen Sinclair, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair Harens, to Mr. John Dunlop Reid, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reid, of Fulford Harbour, B.C., on Wednesday evening, Nov. 6th, at the home of the bride's parents, Keith Road East, North Vancouver, B.C. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. P. Jamieson.

The bride, who entered the room on the arm of her father, looked very charming in her wedding gown of white georgette, with deep silk lace collar and softly flaring skirt. She wore an embroidered net veil, which was a family heirloom from Scotland, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and Ophelia roses. Miss May Harens, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, carried a bouquet of pale rose chrysanthemums.

Mr. Kenneth Reid, cousin of the groom, acted as best man, and during the signing of the register Miss Jennie Thomas, of Vancouver, sang "My Prayer."

A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful basket of pink and white cosmos by the bride and groom to the groom's mother, Mrs. Thomas Reid, whose birthday it was. Afterwards the beautiful three-tier wedding cake was cut by the bride and a buffet supper served.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. John Reid left for a motor trip to Seattle.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Alex. Munro entertained a few friends at her home on North Road, Keating, in honor of her mother's, Mrs. Edward Simpson, 39th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Simpson, who was formerly Miss Ellen Wain, daughter of the late Henry Wain, of Deep Cove, and Edward Simpson, son of the late Henry Simpson, of Saanichton, were married in Holy Trinity Church, North Saanich, on November 20th, 1890. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson have the distinction of being among the few remaining early pioneer families of Saanich, having spent the greater part of their married life on the Peninsula. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson each spent the early years of their life in Saanich, as their parents were among the first settlers to take up land after their arrival in 1850 on the vessel the "Norman Morrison." Among those who were present on Thursday to offer congratulations were Mrs. A. V. Simpson, Mrs. Lorne Butt, Mrs. Walter Blaine, Mrs. Hines and Mrs. Keating.

PENDER ISLAND, Nov. 28.—The November meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. W. Corbett and was very well attended. Mr. Symes, vicar of the Anglican Church, gave a most interesting and helpful address on "Child Study," a subject on which he has spent considerable time and study. Plans were made for the forthcoming Christmas Tree, and it was decided to hold a real old-time entertainment such as was customary in former years, with a Christmas Tree immediately following. The date of this affair has been set for Thursday afternoon, Dec. 19th.

West of the Great Lakes

The growth of the Bank of Montreal has closely coincided with the gradual development of Canada from a small colony to a great Dominion. In the Bank's westward advance to the Pacific Coast, one of the important links in its trans-continental chain of Branches was formed in 1878 at Winnipeg, when the Bank opened its first Branch west of the Great Lakes.

This forward step, taken seven years before railway communication was opened up between Montreal and Winnipeg, made available to the incoming population on the prairies the stabilizing co-operation of a strong, conservative and at the same time energetic financial institution.

Of the Bank's 657 Branches, 14 are in Winnipeg and 188 in the Prairie Provinces.
